A polarimeter is a scientific instrument used to measure the angle of rotation caused by passing polarized light through an optically active substance.. Some chemical substances are optically active, and polarized (uni-directional) light will rotate either to the left (counter-clockwise) or right (clockwise) when passed through these substances.

If using a BC-shielded IV catheter, the line should be flushed with a saline or heparin solution after each sample is taken to ensure patency of the line. After the 120-minute time point, the test is concluded, and the blood samples should be processed as required and sent to the lab for analysis. The glucose tolerance test is given to determine how quickly glucose is cleared from ...
