Assessment is the way in which in our everyday practice, we observe children's learning, strive to understand it, and then put our understanding to good use. (Drummond, 1993) When we watch children, watch them carefully and sensitively, we see them learning. When we approach observation of children with an open mind we can observe the Observation checklists are useful to prepare observation forms easily and quickly. Bear in mind that the checklist can work in two ways: (1) a list of how to prepare and make the observation form and (2) a list of what observers should observe. Users only need to depend on the checklist as they are guided on what to do first until last.
