Downloadable! We analyse the influence of fiscal policy on TFP and per capita output in a panel of OECD countries since 1975. We focus on the effects of government size, government deficits and the composition of taxes and expenditures. Compared to existing studies, our contribution is double. First, we are able to identify both direct and indirect effects of fiscal policy on TFP.

Macro Finance Research in the department Macro Finance focuses on the role of financial processes for macroeconomic phenomena. For example, shocks in the real economy influence market prices of goods and services. We investigate which factors affect price formation and how these market prices feed back to future economic activities, e.g. consumption and investment.

Downloadable! Fiscal policy is central to a country's economic and social objectives, from macroeconomic stability to sustainable growth and poverty reduction. But evaluations of a country's fiscal performance, over time or relative to other countries, are often conducted independent of other development objectives, disregarding the links between fiscal, monetary, and exchange rate policies.
