The measured pH values of the aqueous solutions given in Table 1 led us to speculate that ammonium salts 1 and 2 could be produced by reacting IBA with L-arginine and L-histidine, where the amino acids were in cationic form. It has been reported that L-proline exists as a zwitterion at a pH of approx. 6; 27,28 therefore, the measured pH of product 3 (6.02) indicated that the obtained product ...
