The book that we know as the Daodejing is traditionally ascribed to a mysterious character called Laozi (“the old master”). As best as we can tell, the text was written by several authors over a period of time roughly around the third century BCE. The authors of the Daodejing lived at a time when China consisted of a number of feudal states

The Laozi, Daodejing (also published as The Lao Tzu, Tao Te Ching) is a new translation and commentary for 2015 and beyond. Unlike many other translations, this book's commentary invites the reader into the interpretive process.

The Daodejing was radical in that it subjected to meticulous scrutiny a wide range of existing norms, practices, and beliefs in ancient Chinese society. It was skeptical about existing notions of strength, achievement, and power, and derided attempts to achieve such (Daodejing 2, 3, 8, 12, 13, 19, 20).

7/5/2019 · The Dao De Jing, also called the Tao Te Ching, was originally written in the 6th century BCE by the Chinese sage Laozi. Only 5,000 Chinese characters long, its concise and beautiful wording and its profound insights into the nature of the universe make it one of the most influential books ever written. This wonderful new book expresses the Dao De Jing in simple, contemporary
