6/8/2014 · Wed 6 Aug 2014 05.00 EDT. Seventy-five years ago, on 23 August 1939, Hitler's Germany and Stalin's Russia stunned the world by announcing that they had concluded a non-aggression pact, committing themselves not to aid each other's enemies or to engage in hostile acts against one another. Stalin knew the pact would not be popular.

I just finished reading Roger Moorhouse's The Devils' Alliance: Hitler's Pact with Stalin, 1939-1941. While I have been eyeing Moorhouse's more recent work, First to Fight, on the invasion of Poland in 1939, I thought this was a timelier work, in light of the aggressive historical revisionism being pushed by Putin and his government.
