In light of this, the huge flood of Ottoman Turks took possession of great part of Anatolia (Asia Minor) and the Balkanic territories in the north, west and south of Constantinople. The city was surrounded. In 1451, Sultan Murad II died in Edirne (Adrianapole) and his son Mehmed II, 19, succeeded him2.

This classic account shows how the fall of Constantinople in May 1453, after a siege of several weeks, came as a bitter shock to Western Christendom. The city's plight had been neglected, and negligible help was sent in this crisis. To the Turks, victory not only brought a new imperial capital, but guaranteed that their empire would last.
