The Life of Brainerd is a compilation by Jonathan Edwards (1703-1758) of the diary and journal of the eighteenth century missionary to the North American Indians, David Brainerd (1718-1747).

The life of David Brainard, 18th-century missionary to the native Americans in the Delaware area, from his own diaries, edited and explained by famous Puritan Jonathan Edwards, who was a friend. The first three chapters are agonizingly agonizing. David is a horribly self-consumed teenaged young man agonizing over the condition of his 377 quotes from Jonathan Edwards: 'God is the highest good of the reasonable creature. The enjoyment of him is our proper; and is the only happiness with which our souls can be satisfied. To go to heaven, fully to enjoy God, is infinitely better than the most pleasant accommodations here. Better than fathers and mothers, husbands, wives, or children, or the company of any, or all earthly friends.
